HARRISBURG.

The Legislature Adjourns Sine Die—Presents, Resolutions of Thanks, Farewell Speeches.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, April 16, 1869.

Both Houses adjourned sine die at twelve o'clock to-day. No business was done in either House, and the customary presents, resolutions of thanks and farewell speech-making were indulged in.

Among the presents in the House was a very valuable gold watch and chain from the members to Speaker Clark.

FAREWELL OF SPEAKER WORTHINGTON.

In the Senate Speaker Worthington said: Senators, we are about to separate and once more mingle in the pleasant scenes of home, and enjoy the society of dear friends. Before I hand over the emblem of authority which you placed in my hands to my honored successor, I may be permitted to say a parting word to the kind friends and companions with whom I have been associates, and whose deliberations I have participated during the last six years. Coming to this body a stranger to you all, and having formed the acquaintance of seventy-five Senators, who have occupied seats on this floor during that period it is a source of much gratification that I can say in my retirement I enjoy most cordial and friendly relations with each one, and I have reason to believe that a mutual sentiment of respect is enjoyed by all. With this spirit of fraternal regard, fostered as it has been during our association here, we separate with confident assurance that wherever our lot shall be cast in the future, we shall continue to entertain for each other's welfare the deepest solicitude. During this period a kind Providence has extended his protecting care over us, no arrow from the quiver of death has been permitted to penetrate any one of our number; and while loved ones have been torn from the side of some and caused hearts to bleed with deepest anguish, we have much reason for gratitude that our own ranks have been preserved unbroken. Invoking the blessing of Heaven upon you all, and hoping the welfare of the country and the best interests of our race will continue to receive your protection and support, I bid you all an affectionate farewell.

Senator Stinson was elected Speaker, the Democrats voting for Senator Randall.

FAREWELL OF SPEAKER CLARK.

In the House Speaker Clark said:

I have no doubt that every member on this floor is glad that the session of the Legislature is so near an end, and that we are so soon to be relieved from the labors, duties and responsibilities of Representatives, and to be enabled to return to our homes, and give some attention to our private business. But mingled with this feeling, there is also, with me at least, a sense of regret and sorrow at parting from those with whom I have been so intimately and constantly associated for the last three months. Many of you, at the beginning of the session, were strangers to me; but as the business progressed my duty as Speaker made it necessary for me to become familiar with you all. I, therefore, feel more keenly this separation than I perhaps otherwise would. In many instances, our homes being so far distant, it is probable that we may never meet again; and as in the heat of debate, and from conflicting interests of our constituents, there may have occurred something that was not pleasant at the time, I trust that if such is the case it will be forgotten. At all events, on my part, I can say with perfect sincerity, that I have not an unkind feeling or thought towards any member of this House. In fact I have no reason to feel otherwise than satisfied, for I have always been treated by you with kindness, courtesy and respect, for which I feel gratified, for I am conscious of having very imperfectly performed my duties as Speaker. To the Clerks of the House I am under many obligations, not only for their assistance and advice, but also for their efficiency, industry, and uniform courtesy to myself as well as every member of this body. I have no hesitation in saying, that were I ever to be placed in a similar position to the one I now occupy, and had the power to appoint my own staff, I would endeavor to secure these gentlemen as my assistants and advisers. The Reporters of the House are entitled to my thanks and kind feelings. 'Tis true I never asked them to correct my speeches, or put me right on the Record, simply because whatever little I said was correctly reported. The Sergeant-at-Arms, and his assistants, I have ever found obliging and anxious to perform their duty. All the officers of the House have performed their duties properly, and I am glad to say at the close of the session, that I have no fault to find, but, on the contrary, express my entire approval of their conduct. For your very complimentary resolution, and for the kind expressions made by the different gentlemen, I feel deeply gratified, and shall always remember your kindness with pleasure.

You, gentlemen, have been pleased to present me with these beautiful and valuable gifts, not only valuable in themselves, but particularly precious to me, because they are marks of your personal friendship as well as approval of my course as presiding officer of this House. I thank you sincerely for this, and shall always preserve them as marks of your friendship and esteem.

This gavel, presented by the Clerk, will always be kept by me in a conspicuous place, and I can never look upon it without thinking how often I used a similar one to call the House to order, and directed the donor to read the Journal of yesterday.

Gentlemen, accept my sincere and grateful thanks, as well as my best wishes for your happiness, welfare and prosperity through the journey of life.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, April 16.—3 A. M.—In the House of Commons to-night, in accordance with notice previously given, Mr. Gladstone moved the House go into Committee on the Bill for the Disestablishment of the Irish Church. Mr. Newgate, Conservative member for North Warwickshire, moved as an amendment, that the House go into Committee on the bill in six months from the present day. This motion was equivalent to indefinite postponement. A lively debate followed, during which Mr. Aytonn, member for Kirkaldy, created a sensation by declaring his objections to that clause in the bill which provided for the support of the Maynooth College. Mr. Aytoon is a liberal, and voted with the majority on the division, March 23d, when the bill passed to second reading. His declaration was followed by a scene of great consternation in the House. The opposition cheered repeatedly, and counter cheers and other interruptions came from the ministerial benches. When Aytonn ended his remarks the confusion subsided and the debate continued. Most of the speeches were made by minor members of the opposition. At the end of this discussion, which lasted six hours, Mr. Gladstone arose and said due care would be given by the government to the terms of the provision made for Maynooth College. He attributed much of the opposition to the clergy in Ireland. That power had been built up by the old policy of England, which had been lately partly reversed, and was now to be completely abandoned. He concluded by declaring that the success of this bill was not a question of party, but of justice. Mr. D'Israeli followed. He disapproved of a division on the motion for postponement, and said he was anxious to go into committee on the bill. The House then divided on the motion to go into committee, with the following result: For the motion, 355, against 220—majority, 126. The House then went formally into committee on the bill, and adjourned.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

An Interview with Louis Lane, the Colored Murderer—How he Appears—He still Protests his Innocence.

Yesterday, through the kindness of Warden Scandreth, of the county jail, we were permitted to visit the unfortunate colored man, Louis Lane, who is to expatiate with his life on the gallows on the 29th inst., the murder of his wife by poison. The poor old man we found occupying a comfortable cell on the first floor, which was remarkably clean and tidy. He sat in a chair as we entered, and quietly arose to receive an introduction, not flattering us very much in the reluctance with which he made the acquaintance. He was very reticent at the outset, and answered questions addressed to him in a cold and ceremonious manner, seldom venturing to say more than no or yes. He expressed himself as feeling well and enjoying a good appetite. He said he was baptized on Sunday last into the Catholic church by Rev. Father Kerr, who daily attends him in his cell, and that he does not fear to die, feeling fully prepared to meet his God, and having no hope for further life. No clergyman of any other denomination has visited him since his confinement. On being asked whether guilty or not of the crime for which he must die so soon, he answered, without emotion, that he was innocent, and, when requested to impart some information regarding his previous life, promptly replied that he had nothing to say about his history. However, he said, he was born in Loudon county, Virginia, when, he did not know, but thought he was about fifty years of age. (His appearance indicates that he is well up in sixty.) He was married when a mere boy and the woman whose life he is charged with taking was his third wife. He has two sons and two daughters living, all of them married.

The old man appears completely broken down, and we should not wonder if he so far wastes away, in ahticipation of his awful doom, as to render it necessary to carry him to the scaffold for execution. He grew a shade more lively towards the close of our interview, and occasionally laughed feebly, but he insisted that he had nothing to communicate to the outside world. He said that some kind people had sent him cigars and eatables which he had enjoyed. As he could not read he did not want books or papers sent him. He had learned to say his prayers by heart, and in his devotions used a pair of rosary-beads presented to him by his spiritual adviser. He certainly appears to philosophically view his terrible situation, and to be keenly alive to the near approach of death, but whether he will reveal his guilt by open confession, or die with a protestation of innocence on his lips, is a hard matter to anticipate.

Lane is small in stature, and rather dark in color. He has heavy whiskers and moustache, both very gray, but his thick, wooly head shows no mark of age. His countenance is not unpleasing, having small, clear, sparkling eyes, lofty forehead, and finely cut lips covering a pretty set of well preserved pearly teeth. He correctly uses good English words in conversation, and there is an absence of negroisms peculiar to the Virginian bred colored people. As we were retiring from his cell two Sisters of Charity entered, and the prisoner stepped forward to make them welcome.

One week from next Thursday, the wretched man will atone with his life the terrible crime of which he has twice been found guilty. The scaffold on which he will be executed will not be erected before the evening preceeding the day of carrying out the dreadful sentence, and it will be constructed on a plan much different from any ever used in this county. The prisoner receives all the attention and consideration possible for Warden Scandreth and Assistant Warden Smith to bestow, and he feels duly grateful and attached to them for their marked kindness.

The case of Barclay vs. Davidson, before Judge Mellon, reported on trial yesterday, was resumed and concluded, but a verdict had not been rendered when Court adjourned.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—Mrs. Mary Gladstane took a benefit at the Opera House last evening, on which occasion a very fair audience was present. Mrs. Gladstane will appear in the matinee this afternoon in Leah, and she will close her engagement this evening, when will be presented "Oliver Twist" and "Rose of Ettrick Vale." Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watkins will appear.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The attendance at the Pittsburgh Theatre during the past week has been unprecedented, the house crowded from pit to dome every night. Mr. James Taylor is the chief attraction, although there are many other unusually attractive features in the entertainment. A grand matinee will be given this afternoon, on which occasion Mr. Taylor will appear in his inimitable character of the Yorkshire Farmer, and also in several other amusing roles.

MASONIC HALL.—The dramatic entertainment at Masonic Hall, last evening, was of a highly interesting character. It will be repeated to-night, or rather there will be another entertainment by the same company with an entire change of programme.

MINSTRELS.—Sam. Sharpley's celebrated minstrel troupe will visit our city during the coming week, and will give three of their inimitable entertainments at Masonic Hall, commencing Thursday evening.

SONG.

BY ALBERT PIKE.

When autumn's chilly winds complain
And red leaves withered fall,
We know that Spring will laugh again
And leaf and flower recall.

But when Love's saddening autumn wears
The hues that death presage,
No Spring in Winter's lap prepares
A second golden age

So when Life's autumn sadly sighs
Yet smiles its cold tears through
No spring with warm and sunny skies,
The soul's youth will renew.

Love blooms but once, and dies—for all:
Life has no second spring;
The frost must come, the snow must fall,
Loud as the lark may sing.

O, Love! O, Life! ye fade like flowers,
That droop and die in June;
The present, oh! too short, is ours,
And autumn comes too soon.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The consecration of Bishop Huntingdon, in Emanuel Church, Boston, on Thursday of last week, was an interesting and impressive occasion. The sermon was preached by Bishop Coxe, from 2d Cor. viii: 23—"The messengers of the churches and the glory of Christ." The Independent, in referring to the sermon says, that it was noteworthy as attempting to show that those "messengers of the churches" who were carrying the bounty of the Macedonian Christians to Jerusalem, were an ecclesiastical order, superior to pastors or elders, and corresponding to Anglican or Episcopal Bishops, as were also "the angels of the churches" mentioned by John in the Revelation, which, curiously enough, the learned Bishop represented as written about the time that other scholars regard John's Gospel as having been written, in the Apostle's extreme old age, and to close up the canon. Immediately at the close of the consecration ceremonies, Bishop Huntingdon consecrated his son to the Priest's office.

A Unitarian preacher, named Balch, lately a Universalist, of Janesville, Wis., now residing in Chicago, preached on "The wise man who said in his heart, there is no personal God;" and on another occasion affirmed that oxygen was the true Holy Ghost.

The revival among the Methodists at Buffalo, New York, is remarkable in many respects. Over five hundred persons have been received into the Church on probation. They have been aided by the "praying band," composed of thirteen business men of Troy.

Among the important matters before the Executive Committee of the Evangelical Alliance, at its late meeting in New York, was the appropriation of State Legislatures for sectarian purposes. It protested against all such appropriations, believing such use of the public money to be contrary to the fundamental law of the land prohibiting union of Church and State.

According to the Independent, one of the German Reformed Churches in Philadelphia had received more adults from Romanism during the last few years (numbering between sixty and seventy,) than all the Roman Catholic churches in that city taken together have received during the same period.

It is estimated that there are fifty Catholics among the Chinese of San Francisso, and that some of them had been educated in the Catholic seminaries of China, and are well acquainted with Latin and speak it with fluency.

It is stated a professor in the Mercersburgh Theological Seminary (German Reformed,) in an article objects to the "Week of Prayer" as a rival of "Passion Week," and especially to prayer for the outpouring of the Spirit, as if that Spirit did not always dwell in the Church.

Sermons can be supplied to order at Nassau street, New York, from any texts designated, on very moderate terms.

A meeting of the Board of Trustees of the General (Episcopal) Theological Seminary, New York, was held some days since, for the purpose of acting upon nominations for the office of Dean and two professorships. Bishop Kerfoot, of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, occupied the chair. Rev. Dr. Walton was unanimously elected Professor of the Clement C. Moore Professorship of the Hebrew and Greek Languages. No election was made to the other offices. Additional nominations were made, among whom was Rev. Theodore B. Lyman, D.D., nominated by the Bishop of Pittsburgh, for the office of Dean. Dr. Lyman, it will be remembered, was formerly Rector of Trinity Church in this city.

The American Churchman says that Rev. Wm. P. TenBroeck, of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, has accepted a call to the Rectorship of Christ Church, Green Bay.

The Tenth Provincial Council of Baltimore, will be convened in the Metropolitan church, on Sunday, April 25th, the Feast of St. Mark, and its sessions will terminate on the following Sunday, the Feast of St. Athanisus, Doctor of the Church. The Council are to deliberate on matters of discipline in the Province, and chiefly on the most effectual means for carrying into execution the Decrees of the Second Plenary Council of Baltimore, which have already been received and approved of by the Holy See.

Sunday before last Bishop Domenec administered Confirmation in St. Peters church, Allegheny City, to one hundred and five persons, several of whom were adults and some converts.

Bishop Simpson passed through the city on Wednesday en route to Indiana, to preside over the Northwest Indiana Conference, in place of Bishop Janes, who is unable to attend. His venerable uncle, whom the Bishop is named after, accompanied him as far as New Market, Ohio. This worthy old gentleman is almost ninety-three years of age, and yet enjoys quite vigorous health. We learn from the Bishop that the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, consisting of nine bishops, will meet for consultation and to arrange the Episcopal Visitations for the remainder of the year, at Meadville, Pa., Thursday next, 22d.

The venerable Mrs. Ruth Ruter died at the residence of her son-in-law, Rev. H. Gillmore, Danville, Indiana, aged 80. She was the widow of the distinguished Dr. Martin Ruter, formerly of this city, who went as the first missionary to Texas over thirty years ago.

Rev. T. X. Orr, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, Allegheny City, has been called to the pastorate of the First Reformed (Dutch) church of Philadelphia, which he has accepted. We shall lose an excellent minister.

The Russian Church doesn't allow gas in its edifices, because it isn't mentioned by the fathers.

Rev. Col. Anderson, pastor of the Congregational Church of Ashtabula, Ohio, makes pastorial calls on a velocipede.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has decided that persons whose religious belief protects them from prosecution under the Sunday laws for doing general business, are not thereby allowed to sell liquor on that day.

There are 16,034 Sunday Schools under the control of the Methodist Episcopal Church, instructing 1,165,914 scholars, an increase of 82,389 over last year.

Rev. Mr. Walker, of the Bowdoin Square Baptist Church, Boston, in his farewell sermon, stated that at the first prayer meeting there were only twenty-four present; the last eighthundred. Mr. Walker goes to Chicago.

Mrs. Mary W. Bethune, widow of the much lamented Dr. George W. Bethune, of the Reformed (Dutch) Church, died at La Tour, Switzerland, March 29th.

Rev. J. F. Ware, Unitarian, of Baltimore, thinks it never was harder to make Unitarianism welcome at the South than it is to-day.

The new Bethel, now in process of erection in Cincinnati, will be one of the most complete of the kind in our country. Its cost will be sixty thousand dollars, and four thousand children can be accommodated in its spacious rooms.

One of the oldest citizens of Washington City recently in a religious meeting remarked there were never before so many earnest, outspoken Christian men in Congress as now.

Church Etiquette.

An exchange says: If, instead of the closing anthem, some of our ministers should, at the close of the service, give the orders, "Attention, worshippers!" For hats—dive! For overcoats—go! Jerk—twist—plunge! Make yourselt ridiculous all!" the effect would hardly be a variation from the present style of getting ready to go out of church. The sounding of the doxology seems to be the signal for a general putting on and adjustment, and when the benediction is about to be pronounced, the ruffled congregation look more like jumping out of the windows, or uniting in a crushing and crowding race for the doors than listening to the solemn words of the good pastor. At one of our well-filled churches on Sunday evening, it was observed that at least every third man was going through these ridiculous motions while the services were closing, although the sermon had been excellent, and had lasted only forty-eight minutes. Why do not people wait until the proper time to do these things? There is a time for everything, but that time does not always occur during church service.

Maple Sugar in Michigan.

The maple sugar crop throughout the State will be a large one. The weather for the past fourteen days has been just right to give a good run of the material for boiling and making a first rate article of maple sugar. Parties along the line of Grand River Valley Railroad inform us that in Barry and Eaton counties a considerable amount has already been marketed. At Hastings from 1,500 to 2,000 pounds are taken per day. At Nashville, in Barry county, there have been shipped from 1,500 to 2,500 pounds per day during the last ten days, mostly to Illinois. At Vermontville, 1,500 to 2,000 pounds per day; at Charlotte, 2,000 to 2,500 pounds per day. The wagon roads are very bad and the sugar makers very busy. The trade in sugar will not be large for ten or twelve days; the most of it is bought in those towns at from twelve to eighteen cents, according to quality, while here it would bring twenty cents. —Jackson (Mich.) Citizen.

JEWS IN CHINA—A correspondent of the Jewish Times says that he made a visit three years ago to a community of Jews, three or four hundred in number, in the heart of China. Extreme poverty had compelled them to sell their synagogue, to be pulled down for the stone and timber it contained. They had preserved their faith and worship for more than two thousand years, until the troubles following the outbreak of civil war robbed them almost of the means of existence. Now it is forty years since their last Rabbi died, and no one remains among them who has any knowledge of Hebrew. Without assistance to rebuild their synagogue and re-establish education and worship, the little community must at last perish.

AT THE recent election in Connecticut, Father Carmody, who has charge of the largest Catholic congregation in New Haven, opposed with zeal the Democratic ticket. His action is thus explained:

"He has no interest in the defeat of the Democrats as a political party, but he does care for the morals of the young men committed to his spiritual care. According to him, the Democratic politicians in his neighborhood, at the last election, induced many of his parishoners not yet twenty-one to perjure themselves by swearing they were of full age, and, therefore, entitled to vote. Such conduct he felt bound, in his capacity as a Christian minister, to reprobate, and he accordingly did so to the extent of his ability."

Washington Items.

The business of office-making in Washington may be judged from the fact that since Monday morning two thousand appointments have been made. This includes all kinds; more than half, however, not going to the Senate.

It is probable that the present extra session will not last longer than the 20th instant. All of the treaties of importance have been disposed of or will be laid over, and, consequently, nothing remains to be done except to act upon the nominations, which are now being sent in with great rapidity.

It will be one of the first official acts of the new Minister to communicate the rejection of the Alabama treaty to the British Government, to be followed, it is believed, by the submission of a new plan of settlement, quite at variance from that urged by Secretary Seward so long, and very opposite to the one on which Lord Clarendon and Reverdy Johnson agreed. Minister Motley will leave for London before the 1st of June.

Considerable feeling has been developed lately among certain Senators over the remarks of Mr. Sprague on various occasions. Although Mr. Sprague has not really given any foundation for the intimation, the majority of his political associates in the Senate seem to think that he has determined to part company with them, and express the belief that he will hereafter be found acting with the Democratic party.

The House Committee on the Ninth Census have decided to solicit information from all sections of the United States as to the resources, growth, and development of the country. The Committee will go to New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Chicago. In each of these cities they will hold sessions for the purpose of placing themselves in communication with the various statistical societies, prominent manufacturers and agriculturalists. They will also recommend to the President the appointment of a commission of two or three gentlemen to attend the International Statistical Congress, which meets at the Hague, next summer.

Tenure-of-Office Holders.

Heretofore, men who secured appointments to and confirmations in office, have regarded themselves safe for at least four years. I had a conversation with Mr. Delano upon this point, in regard to revenue officers. His aim would be, he said, to select good men, and to this end he had asked and would continue to ask the advice of citizens in various localities who had no personal interest to serve. Having filled the offices, he would sustain the agents of the Government in the discharge of their official duties, and would not be governed by complaints coming from interested sources. He is aware that the first act of revenue thieves is to try to bribe officers. Failing in this, they seek to destroy their characters. He will aim to appoint men who have characters that cannot be easily destroyed, and then he will give them all reasonable support; but in all cases officers are to regard themselves as on trial; that is to say, the official guillotine is to be kept constantly in view. The business of officers is to enforce the laws, and a failure to enforce will be regarded as a sufficient cause for removal. If, for example, whisky should continue to be sold on 'Change in Cincinnati, or shipped from Cincinnati to New Orleans, and sold there below the cost of production, while the distilleries in the Second District are in full blast, that will be considered sufficient cause for the removal of revenue officers. You see the point. The rule is a good one. In nine cases out of ten the guillotine that drops under that rule will cut off the head of a corrupt or incompetent officer. Officers, in such cases, are not to be asked to show cause why they should not be dismissed—they are to be dismissed, and they will first hear of it by a telegraphic announcement, which will read about as follows:

J. B. C. was to-day appointed Collector of the —— District of ——, in place C. B. J. removed.

Justification for such summary proceedings is to be found in the necessity for a thorough execution of the laws. Officers will take notice, and govern themselves accordingly.—Wash. Cor. Cin. Gazette.

GRANT'S POLICY.—The World's Washington correspondent says that Grant has a war policy, and that he is determined to absorb all North America. He admires the Administrations of Jefferson and Polk when territory was added to the Union. Canada and the West Indies remain. Mr. Seward, says the correspondent, talked these matters into the General, and soon converted him to his views. Strange as it may seem, Grant, according to the same authority, has accepted Butler as his right bower, and Butler's trip to Nova Scotia was part of the programme. Feelers are thrown out, says the correspondent, with the object learning how far the people will back up the President.

If all this is true, an era of excitement and interest opens up before us, and newspapers will have a world of business,

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases. Syphilis in all its forms, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis, Amenorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhœa, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sufferer contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, Pa.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 16, 1869.

The weather continues clear and pleasant and all that could be desired for out-door operations, and business, although by no means active, is improving. The country roads are also in a better condition, and this of course, brings a good many buyers into the city and it is altogether probable that trade will improve considerably, and that, too, very soon. We can report a fair local demand for most of the leading articles, and a fair volume of business in the aggregate, while values generally are without important change.

APPLES—Very scarce, particularly in sound condition; we continue to quote at $5@6,50 per bbl.

APPLE BUTTER—90@$1 per gallon.

BUTTER—Is less active and with a supply fully up to the demand, prices are barely maintainen. We continue to quote at 45@48 for prime to choice Roll.

BEANS—$3,25@3,50 per bushel.

CHEESE—Market almost bare; small sales New York Goshen at 24@25.

CARBON OIL—Is still quoted at 29@30 in a jobbing way for standard brands.

EGGS—Have still further declined, and we now quote at 17@18.

FEATHERS—A shade firmer, and we now quote live geese feathers at 80 to the trade, and the usual advance in a retail way.

FLOUR—We can now report a continued fair demand for Flour, and a fair volume of business in the aggregate, but prices are unchanged. We continue to quote Spring Wheat brands at $6,50@7, and Winter Wheat at $7,50@8. Rye Flour $7,25. Mill prices unchanged.

GRAIN—Wheat is dull and prime Red is unchanged at $1,45@1,50. Oats unchanged at 65@66 on track and wharf, and 68@70 in store. Ear corn is in steady demand for feeding, with sales on on wharf at 78@80. Shelled corn is unchanged at 73@75. Rye is in rather better demand, and we now quote at $1,43@1,45. Barley season is about over; choice Spring would bring $2.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to recede slowly with six feet in the channel by the Monongahela marks last evening.

The weather continues clear and pleasant, and business is moderately active at the landing, taking all things into consideration.

No arrivals to report aside from the packets. The Glendale from St. Louis, was due last night, and will doubtless be found in port this morning. The R. C. Gray from Cincinnati, and New York from Nashville, are among the first boats due.

The Kenton departed for Portsmouth with a fair trip, as did also the Gallatin for Parkersburg.

The Alaski, departed for New Orleans. Pilots—John Ferguson and Tom Morris.

The Australia, Capt. Dan Moore, will be the next boat for New Orleans.

The Waunita, Capt. C. A. Dravo, clerk G. L. Reppart, will positively leave for St. Louis and St. Paul to-day.

—The New York also left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Wednesday. Pilots—Gosney and Hall.

—The Board of Underwriters at St. Louis crossed the Lady Grace. She was from Cincinnati and bound to the mountains with a full load of freight.

—The United States Surveying boat, in charge of Major S. Abbott, has reached Fort Smith, having made the survey of the Arkansas river from Fort Gibson to Fort Smith. The survey will be extended to the mouth of the river without delay.

—The R. C. Gray left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Wednesday, with 250 tuns, including 120 bales cotton, 646 bales hay, 400 sacks bran, 10 bbls and 22 bags flaxseed, 40 casks bacon, 10 tcs hams, 50 caddies tobacco and 199 new oil barrels. Pilots, James Shouse and Nick Whitten.

—We clip the following from the Winona Republican of the 8th inst: The season opens with good prospects for the freight lines. The amount of wheat and flour awaiting shipment is greatly in excess of what it was last spring, and there will doubtless be the usual amount of freight from below.

—The Wheeling and Parkersburg Packet Co. have contracted with parties at Wheeling for a first-class steamer for the low-water season. She will be 150 feet long, 26 feet beam, with 30-inch hold; engines 11¼-inch diameter, 3½ feet stroke. Capt. Chas. Muhleman is superintending the work, and expects to have her out by the first of July.

—Capt. St. Clair Thomasson is among the Belle Lee's passengers from New Orleans to Louisville. He is on his way to Louisville to be connected with the Galt House. The Picayune truly says: "Capt. T. whose fame is as wide as the length of the Mississippi, both as a caterer and as an accomplished gentleman, and whose friends are legion, will insure the presence of all Southern visitors to Louisville at the Galt House."

—The Evansville Journal, referring to the loss of Geo. Ely, clerk of the ill-fated G. A. Thomson, in Arkansas River, says: The loss of Geo. Ely will cast a gloom over a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. He was one of nature's true noblemen. We parted with him yesterday morning a week ago at the wharf, in buoyant spirits and the glow of health upon his cheek, with prospects of a long and brilliant life before him. Before one short week had flown, he was cut down in the morning of life. May he rest in peace.

CHICAGO lost but little over half a million of dollars last year by fire. Is this evidence of the efficiency of a paid fire department?

IF we are to have a bit of trouble with Spain, the brave Gen. DAN SICKLES will accept a mission there, but he can't bear to be accredited to any court where there is no trouble brewing, or no prospect for field duty.

THERE is more building enterprise exhibited this spring in these communities than has been observable for the last twenty years. Pittsburgh especially is fairly leaping into position as a great and powerful city.

THE most profound satisfaction is felt in oil circles over the killing, in the Legislature, previous to adjournment, of the odious bill taxing petroleum. The State cannot well afford to cripple that great interest in any manner.

IN THE Street Committee of Councils ordinances were favorably acted upon providing for the laying of Nicolson pavement the full length of Smithfield street and of Fifth avenue from Ross to Dinwiddie street. These are improvements much needed and we hope Councils will not hesitate to endorse the action.

NEW YORK ratifies the XVth Article, being the twenty-first State to give a constitutional assent. Included in the twenty-one, are Louisiana and Kansas, whose Legislatures did not legally perfect their action. These will amend their records at their next sessions. But seven more States are needed, for the Constitutional adoption of the new Article.

A RECENT Report to the Ohio Legislature puts the number of insane persons in that State at 5,000, of whom 950 are confined in the county jails and infirmaries, under circumstances of the greatest exposure and neglect. A very large increase is recommended to be made in the charitable provisions of the State, through its various asylums, for the special treatment of this unfortunate class.

A DISPATCH from Washington, Pa., announces that $242,000, or more than two thirds of the conditional sum required has been subscribed to the Chartiers Railroad stock. The remainder, $80,000, should be raised without difficulty, more especially since arrangements are being made for the immediate commencement of work on the road, thus giving ample assurance that the long entertained project has assumed the air of reality.

ADVICES from Washington assert that the somewhat important mission to Portugal was tendered to Mr. SHELLABARGER and by him declined, and that it has again been offered in the hope that he may accept. The name of a very worthy gentleman of this county has been presented for the post by influential gentlemen, and should Mr. S. again decline the honor no doubt the appointment will fall in that direction.

WE recently suggested, that the clamor of certain Eastern journals, in behalf of the speedy recognition by our government, of the Cuban "movement for independence" is generally to be explained, and quite to the public satisfaction, by the notorious venality of those journalists. We specified none of those by name, but we perceive that the Philadelphia Press seems to have been badly hit, and indiscreet enough to confess it. We are now more than ever convinced of the literal justice of our suggestion.

UP TILL WITHIN a very late date the importance of canals for the moving of freights was greatly under-estimated, and few there were but believed that they would be entirely abandoned as useless before the march of railway improvements. It has been found, however, that these internal systems of communication have not outlived their usefulness, but as a means for the transportation of heavy freight at cheap rates, are vastly superior to railroads. The disadvantage of slowness is the only great drawback to canals, but it is highly probable that steam will soon take the place of horse power, and that a cheap and comparatively swift water carriage will be established to meet the imperative demands of the times. Pennsylvania, owning nearly a third part of the four thousand miles of canals in the United States, is deeply interested in bringing them to greater perfection and usefulness, and our people would hail with pleasure and satisfaction any improvement in the system which looks towards cheaper transportation.

SINCE WEDNESDAY morning at ten o'clock, up to the present hour (three o'clock A. M. Saturday,) there has been raging a fearful fire at a nest of oil refineries in the XIIId ward. The loss thus far, in the estimation of those posted, will closely approach $300,000, and before the conflagration is ended it is highly probable that it will reach half a million. The refinery where the fire originated was constructed on the most careful plan and thought to be fire proof in every particular. Indeed, one of the owners ventured to wager, on being informed that the place was in flames, that the loss would not be over ten thousand dollars, so certain was he that the shields against the element were sufficiently strong to ensure against its encroachments to any great degree. Thus far two lives are reported to be lost. At twelve last night fresh aid was called to the scene and it is possible that much more damage will be reported to-day.

OUR NATIONAL HIGHWAYS.

The meeting of citizens at the Mayor's office, yesterday, was much the largest yet held in this city, for the discussion of the bridge-question, and included a very full representation of the leading interests in this community. We have satisfactory assurances of the hearty co-operation of all our citizens in the purposes of the meeting, and that, whenever the question shall be brought to a square and practical issue, the friends of every material interest in these cities, will be found acting together, cordially and efficiently, an unit for the protection of the endangered rights of all our people. The laboring oar, in the movement for their vindication, has been for the present committed to the capable hands which have been specially detailed to initiate measures for the general relief, but at the needful moment, we are fully authorized to pledge, from the mining, manufacturing and commercial interests of the Upper Ohio and its tributaries, a long and strong pull altogether, for the re-establishment of the inalienable rights of the people.

We surrender large space to the proceedings of the meeting, in our columns this morning, and invite to this report, and especially to the resolutions which were adopted, the attentive consideration of our readers. These cover a fair and dispassionate statement of the entire case. The natural and legal rights of the people are calmly and clearly presented; how these rights have been invaded, and are still more seriouly threatened, is set forth, faithfully in consonance with the facts; no compromise is recognized with existing mischiefs, and no submission is promised to the erection of fresh obstructions, against the absolutely free enjoyment of a right from which no legislation can legally exclude two millions of people.

It is seen that the resolutions frankly and mantully take the broad and impregnable ground that the people, not by specially created privilege, but by the rights of the people, which our constitutions recognize and which no laws can impair, do assert and will maintain this indefeasible title to the utmost freedom in the pursuit of an unobstructed commerce upon this great natural highway.

Our use of this navigable stream cannot be legally impaired, to us or to our children. We claim as clear a right to its unimpeded enjoyment, as that which necessitated the transfer of the lower Mississippi, and of its debouchure with the Gulf of Mexico, from a foreign Sovereignty to the American ownership. It is sixty years since the meagre American population of this Valley of the Great River, and its tributaries, demanded the acknowledgment of their natural and indefeasible privilege of transporting their traffic upon its waters, following those from their various sources down to the ocean. The sea, said the American doctrine of 1809, was no more justly the highway of nations "than were the Mississippi, and all of its tributary navigable streams, the natural highways of the populations dwelling upon their banks." Neither Spanish jealousy nor the insolent pride of French power availed them, to resist this claim, or even to refute its equity. A purchase effected what, otherwise, a war would have achieved—the absolute and perpetual removal of the barriers with which a foreign domination, over the lower banks of that great stream, proposed to obstruct its free navigation by the Americans possessing its upper waters.

The acquisition of Louisiana from France was urged, and consummated expressly for the vindication of the simple principle to which the people of this tributary valley once more appeal. The artificial barriers of masonry which are now sought to be protected by Congressional authority in the channel of the Ohio, as clearly conflict with the inalienable popular right, as did the usurpations of an European power in Louisiana, two generations ago. What matters it, whether that right be assailed by hostile guns, or by domestic encroachments? By the espionage of our friendly custom-houses, or by the physical obstacles which private usurpations would now interpose? Now as then, the people of all that imperial territory which these rivers drain, assert the absolute freedom of their right of navigation, against no matter what invasions, from abroad or at home.

This right has been once awarded, and it still stands disputed, in the erection, by a private corporation, of the structure at Steubenville. Our people deny the lawfulness of that erection; they will never consent to it, as long as one stone shall stand upon another in the channel. They pledge themselves, yesterday and to-day, as ever, to the earliest possible abatement of that structure, as an unjustifiable nuisance which no legislature can sanction, which no policy has ever excused, and which no lapse of time shall ever protect. It has been built by Pennsylvania enterprise and promotes a great highway in which Pittsburgh justly feels an interested pride. But that does not justify it in the judgment of our people. It stands a corporate invasion, in the interest of the few, of the clear rights of the many, and that condemns it. Asking no favors for a favorite exception, we ask for no compromises of the one broad principle, which the Steubenville structure denies, and which is again menaced at other points in the same valley.

If the bridges at Bellaire and Parkersburg are to be constructed, this season, in defiance of the public sentiment and of popular right, the corporation which builds them has fair warning that their structures must ultimately be abandoned. We do not propose an attempt to deter the B. & O. Railroad Company by any threats. We wish only to admonish the company that the people of the Upper Ohio Valley are in earnest, and will not rest in their efforts until this navigable stream is once more relieved from these needless and indefeasible encroachments upon navigable rights.

The law of 1862, whether it be unconstitutional or not, will be repealed. Fair notice of this has been given to all concerned. And this repeal will be speedy. The popular movement in that direction is organizing and is bound to win. There is a way to reach Senators and Representatives, as well in the interests of the people as of private corporations; that way will be found and followed, to a final popular triumph. There is nothing surer than this!

It is not only Pittsburgh that moves. Behind us stand the people of Western Pennsylvania, of Eastern Ohio, of Southwestern New York, and of nearly one-half of that West Virginia which Senator BOREMAN has been unfaithful to. Two millions of people are yet to be heard in this matter. If they are not heard, and to a good purpose at last, it will be something new in our republican experience. The proposed Convention will be a step in the right direction, and we shall look to its deliberations for the most profitable results.

OHIO RIVER NAVIGATION.

Meeting of Citizens—The Question of Short Span Bridges—Report of Committee Appointed to Visit Washington. —Remarks of General J. K. Moorhead, Col. J. K. Kerr and Hon. T. J. Bigham—Resolutions Adopted.

Friday morning, in pursuance of a published notice, a large number of citizens interested in the navigation of the Ohio River, assembled in Mayor Brush's private office, to hear the report of a Committee appointed to visit Washington City, and ask Congress to pass an act prohibiting the erection of short span bridges over that river.

On motion, at half past eleven o'clock, the meeting was organized by calling Mayor Brush to the chair and electing Simpson Horner, Capt. Jas. Blackmore, Capt. George Miller, Michael Whitmore, William O'Neal Vice Presidents, and Wm. M. Smith and Fred Wilson, Secretaries.

The Chairman having stated the object of the meeting, on motion, John F. Dravo, N. J. Bigley, John C. Risher, William Oliver and William Dunseath were appointed a Committee to prepare resolutions.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE.

Capt. M. W. Beltzhoover, chairman of the Visiting Committee, now presented the following report:

GENTLEMEN: Your Committee, appointed to visit Washington City for the purpose of getting Congress to pass the bill authorizing the Secretary of War to appoint a Board of Engineers to survey, examine and report to the next Congress upon the practicability of allowing only three hundred feet spans Rail Road bridges to be built over the channel way of the Ohio river, and prohibiting any bridges being built in the meantime with less than four hundred feet span over the channel, beg leave to report:

That immediately upon our arrival we went to the Congressional Committee Room on roads and canals, in hopes of finding them in session. The time for adjournment having been fixed on Saturday we knew that no time was to be lost in procuring legislation. They were not, however, in session. At the door of the committee room we met the paid agents of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company waiting our arrival, ready as usual to use all means in their power to procrastinate legislation this session upon the bill, in order that they might proceed in building their two bridges this summer under the existing law, passed in 1862, allowing bridges to be built of only three hundred feet span over the channel of the river, and two hundred feet between the other piers. Through the influence of our representative, General Negley, the Chairman of the Committee called them together on Saturday morning that we might be heard. We presented our statements of facts to prove that spans of three hundred feet in width, no matter where they are placed in the river, are a dangerous obstruction to navigation, and under no circumstances could our tows of coal pass through with any degree of safety at night. We called the attention of the Committee to the sworn statements of sixty-one pilots and captains of towboats to this fact, and after presenting many other incontrovertible proofs in support of our side of the question, we urged upon them the importance of their immediate action, as Monday would be the last day of the session for offering bills.

The paid agents of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, who were present during our examination, insisted on postponement of action, under the plea of being able to offer rebutting testimony, but in fact for the purpose of postponing action until after the morning hour of Monday's session, and although their side of the question had been argued before the Committee by the President and Engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company on the Wednesday previous, nevertheless they granted the postponment until Monday at three o'clock P. M., when the representatives on both sides appeared, made statements and presented facts both pro and con to the Committee, after hearing which they agreed almost unanimously to report the bill through their Chairman, Mr. Ingersoll, who made every effort to do so on Tuesday morning. It being out of the regular order of business, it required a two-thirds vote to get it before the House. The attempt called forth a vote of seventy-five for, and fifty-six against taking it up. There being only three days of the session left for passing upon the unfinished business, it was impossible, under the circumstances, to have taken it up and acted upon. Your Committee on learning that postponement had been granted by the House Committee until Monday afternoon, consequently fearing the fatal result that did occur, went immediately to Governor Morton, of the Senate (who fully appreciates the importance of the subject) and requested him to bring it before the Senate, which he did. He had it referred to the Committee on Post Roads, asking their immediate action. The Chairman of the Committee, Governor Ramsey, called them together to hear us on Thursday morning. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company agents, as usual, were present, and the same game of postponement gone through. Mr. Garrett, their President, telegraphed he could not be present until Friday morning, when both sides were again heard pro and con with the same result. The bill, favorably reported, laid on the speaker's desk twenty-four hours before adjournment, and of course could not be called up for want of time. W. Milnor Roberts, Esq., Engineer in Chief, engaged by the Government in making surveys of and removing obstructions from the Ohio river, and perfectly familiar with the present necessary economical mode of transporting coal in large quantities by towboats and barges down said river, being struck with the stupendous absurdity of the Government's allowing obstructions to be placed in the river of much greater magnitude than any he was authorized to remove, thought it expedient to accompany us before the Committee of the House of Representatives, to whom he gave valuable information, presenting maps of the river where the proposed bridges are to be built this summer by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, also drawings of tow-boats with their barges, elucidating clearly the fact that bridges, with their widest span only three hundred feet, would be a dangerous and serious obstruction to navigation on this river, and also that railroad bridges of five hundred feet span could be built as strong and safe as any of three hundred, the question of cost being the only difference.

For Mr. Roberts' earnest and able efforts in endeavoring to prevent obstructions being placed in the river, he has our thanks and we have no doubt will receive the thanks of the millions of people interested in the non-obstruction of this great highway.

This same resolution or bill, asking that the Secretary of War should appoint a Board of Examiners, with authority to report to the last Congress as to a three hundred feet span over the channel of the river being an obstruction or not, was before the Senate Committee of the Fortieth Congress. Those interested in river navigation and others opposed to the obstruction of the river, and those interested in the building of railroad bridges over it, appeared before said committee and presented to them arguments and facts for and against it. The result was that the bill was reported favorably, and passed the Senate. It then went to the House, and was referred to the House Committee on Roads and Canals, where it died.

At the last session of the Fortieth Congress the same routine of evidence was gone through with, both sides appearing before the House Committee on Roads and Canals, with the same result. The bill was reported upon favorably to the House of Representatives, and passed on the Monday previous to adjournment; went to the Senate, was referred to the Committee on Post Routes; and never more heard of that session.

Thus, by the powerfully concentrated, active and overwhelming influences brought to bear upon Congress by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, just and proper legislation has been prevented until now, when they are ready to build their bridges under the law of 1862.

Your Committee feel assured, from information they have received from members of Congress who have examined this subject, that the law of 1862 has proven to be a great mistake, will be repealed, and all bridges built under it must be taken down.

With this, our report, we leave the matter in the hands of the people for action, to use all honorable and proper influences in their power to prevent any bridges from ever being built over this great and important highway of less than four hundred feet span.

JOSEPH WALTON,
M. W. BELTZHOOVER,
Committee.

The report was read and adopted.

REMARKS OF MR. MOORHEAD.

Following the adoption of the paper General Moorhead, who was present, was called upon and made a few remarks. He said he was interested in the free navigation of the Ohio river equally with those who were engaged in shipping coal and other products to the cities along its banks; and he heartily coincided with the sentiments expressed in the report. He had been for some time acquainted with legislation in reference to this matter, and had been singularly impressed with the fact that whenever the question of bridging any stream of any size was brought up, before Congress, it seemed as if the entire railroad interests of the country were arrayed against the measure, and the present matter was no exception; it had several times been before the appropriate Committee in Congress, in the manner substantially as represented in the report and with a uniform result. He gave a detailed account of his efforts in favor of the passage of the desired act, in Congress and before the Committee. He thought the act of 1862, a very unfortunate one, and on this ground had so pressed the matter before the Committee at one session of Congress, that he felt persuaded that a bill favorable to a repeal would be reported. At the next session, however, a new committee had been appointed, and the battle had to be fought again, and the matter had been undergoing discussion ever since. If the act were repealed, although no bridges now erected could be directly removed, yet no new ones could be built, and the old ones would ultimately be removed. The losses occasioned by these bridges would fall upon the companies owning them, and not upon navigators of the rivers as now. He thought the principal point to be arrived at was the repeal of this law of 1862. Upon this object every effort should be concentrated.

MR. KERR'S REMARKS.

Colonel J. K. Kerr was next called upon. He said he had for a long time entertained similar views to those which had called the citizens together in reference to this matter. He agreed with General Moorhead as to the necessity of aiming particularly at the repeal of the law of 1862. The Ohio river was the great outlet for the commerce and trade of Pittsburgh and surrounding country and the tributary by which the needed supplies of coal and other products were carried to the cities of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys. President Garrett, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, had stated before the Congressional Committee that there was no occasion for bringing in use, by Pittsburgh shippers, the large towboats and other crafts, which demanded a full sweep of the river channel. This was altogether a mistake, and an attempt to infringe upon and circumscribe the rights of navigators of the river. Pittsburghers and others interested should insist upon possessing every needed inch of channel, from this port to New Orleans. Instead of asking Congress simply to protect navigation from further obstruction, he thought Congress should do something toward the improvement of the present navigation of this important stream. It was well enough to talk about railroads, but transportation never could be furnished as cheap by rail as water, a fact to which the great cities along our western rivers chiefly owed their importance. Hence it was but simple justice that these cities and the populous country adjacent, should not deprived of the privileges afforded them by their natural position by the cry of local prejudice which had been raised. The speaker, in conclusion, said he thought the whole matter might be adjusted by an exhibition to Congress that the trade of the upper Ohio could not be conducted, as formerly, with small craft, but demanded the largest sized boats, and the least possible obstruction of the channel.

Thus President Garrett's argument would be answered, and one of the chief objections made by the opponents of the act done away with.

MR. BIGHAM'S REMARKS.

Hon. T. J. Bigham was the last speaker. He said that the matter had already been fully treated upon. He said that he had heard Senator Boreman of West Virginia use the argument that the obstruction of the river at Parkersburg would not inconvenience the residents of lower cities, as the coal-fields of West Virginia, Kentucky and in the Western States would be sufficient to supply every demand. He thought such an argument simply impudent, as it practically urged the closing up of two hundred miles of navigation. He then referred to the damage which would result by the present policy of constructing bridges, and contended that the people should assert their rights and endeavor to prevent the erection of bridges with spans of less than four hundred feet. He said the objection made by companies to the erection of long span bridges was simply because of the increased cost of such structures. He was surprised that so shrewd a man as the President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company should allow his actions to be controlled by such trifling considerations.

Mr. John F. Dravo, from the Committee on resolutions, now presented the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Ohio river is one of the great National highways of the country, through which the inter-state commerce must flow, in a normal and healthy condition of the country, drained by said river;

AND WHEREAS, Many of the principal centres of population, inland, festoon said river, because it is the great artery through which their daily recurring wants are supplied;

AND WHEREAS, Without its free and unobstructed navigation the immense bituminous coal fields of Western Pennsylvania, and especially the coal and other interests of Pittsburgh and its dependencies, will not only suffer, but languish and perish, and along with them the wants, interests and prosperity of all the cities and towns which represent the large, active, growing, prosperous and rapidly developing States, which aggregate their population, commerce and manufactories in said cities and towns.

AND WHEREAS, It is an act of national injustice for Congress to authorize or permit any rival interests, either corporate or individual, to obstruct the navigation of said river, and thereby injure or destroy either the growth or prosperity of the cities and towns situate on or near said river, or the inhabitants interested therein;

AND WHEREAS, The railroads of the country demand the privilege of constructing bridges across said river, without regard to the natural rights of cities and towns aforesaid, and in direct violation of the good faith of the Government, to assure to them the free and uninterrupted navigation thereof, for the benefit of cities more highly favored, whose waters cannot be obstructed, and also for the benefit of capital which otherwise has acquired privileges sufficiently great without wiping out from the maps and geography of our country, cities, which would to-day be the pride and ornaments of Kingdoms and Empires.

AND WHEREAS, In this country cities, towns, and manufactories are the effects of great and prevailing natural causes, and therefore it is that all our large cities are built on some navigable water;

AND WHEREAS, Congress has and exercises exclusive control and jurisdiction over said river and the commerce carried thereon; therefore,

Resolved, That the erection of bridges across said river with spans covering the main channel less than four hundred feet is a dangerous obstruction to the navigation thereof by steam and towboats, and will greatly increase the dangers and risks of navigation, and tend to destroy the commerce carried thereon.

Resolved, That it is an act of bad faith and gross injustice to the cities, towns and people living along said river, whose prosperity and very existence depend on the free and unimpaired navigation thereof, to destroy or impair it, to aid remote and rival interests.

Resolved, That the neglect of Congress, at its last session, to repeal the act of July 14, 1862, legalizing the bridge at Steubenville, and authorizing similar bridges, to be erected across said river above the mouth of Big Sandy, evinced on the part of that body a flagrant disregard of the rights, interests and welfare of the people living in the great valleys of the Ohio and Mississippi.

Resolved, That the attempt of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company to create in themselves vested rights by the erection of their short span bridges, during the vacation of Congress, is a deliberate, unreasonable, unnecessary and unjust attempt to forestall and prevent action in the premises by Congress, and therefore cannot give them any greater rights than they now have.

Resolved, That we do hereby give notice to all parties proposing to erect narrow-span bridges over the Ohio river, during the present season, before Congress shall have determined the rights of the parties, that we will continue to agitate and appeal to Congress until such nuisances, if erected, shall be abated, and that we will ignore all party fealty, and in casting our votes, vote only for such men and parties as will guarantee to us and the people of the Ohio Valley our rights upon this great national highway.

Resolved, We do hereby denounce this deliberate and wanton attempt to destroy pre existing rights—the rights of trade and travel upon the free waters of a free river, merely to save the expenditure of a few additional dollars by rival routes.

Resolved, That the Committee of Correspondence be authorized to secure legal counsel to carry into effect the objects of this meeting, and also the recovery of losses sustained by the Steubenville bridge, and to inaugurate measures to have the same obstruction abated.

Resolved, That we deeply regret the narrow and illiberal views of Senator Boreman, of West Virginia, which induced him to lend his influence in opposition to our interests and those of his State, thereby betraying the confidence reposed in him by the citizens of the Great West.

Resolved, That a Committee of five be appointed to confer with the citizens of Wheeling, Cincinnati, Louisville and other points along the river, with the view of holding a convention at an early day, to devise ways and means to protect the free navigation of the rivers of the national domain.

Capt. R. C. Gray next read the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That John F. Dravo, William H. Brown, Thomas Fawcett, John Willock and John Watson be appointed a committee to open correspondence with the President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, with a view of inducing him to accede to the same compromise made between the railroad companies building bridges over the Ohio river at Cincinnati, Louisville and Paducah, and build his bridges with four hundred feet span over the channel way.

Resolved, That the earnest thanks of the commercial interests of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys are especially due to W. Milnor Roberts, Esq., Chief Engineer of Ohio River Improvement under Government, for his persistent efforts and emphatic protest against the obstruction of our great national highway by the erection of three hundred feet span bridges.

The resolutions were adopted, after which the meeting adjourned.

Oil Strikes.

The Titusville Herald says: A few days ago a new well was struck near Tionesto in the second sand rock and tested, but it produced only three barrels during twenty-four hours pumping, and the owners concluded to sink it into the third sand rock.

A new forty barrel well was struck last Monday on the black oil belt on the Independent Oil Company's tract, which adjoins the Mill farm on the west. The working interest is owned by Messrs. Harris, of Titusville, and Fleming of Shamburg. This well is the most important one that has been struck in some time. It is located between Shamburg and Pleasantville, and determines the valuable nature of the territory situated between the two places, as it indicates beyond a doubt that the black oil belt underlies it.

Four new wells have been struck on Cherry-tree run within the past ten days. The production of each of them will be reported as soon as it is accurately ascertained.

TRUSSES AND HERNIA.

The sad and deplorable condition of many who are afflicted with hernia or rupture of the bowels, calls loudly for some efficient and unmistakable remedy that will not only in every case give efficient relief, but in many cases effect a radical and thorough cure. These cases of hernia have become so frequent, that it is computed that one-sixth of the male population are said to be troubled, in some way or another, with this terrible ailment; and in very many cases do not know where to apply for an appropriate remedy, oftentimes not knowing whether an appliance is really needed or not; and if it should be needed, they often do not know where or to whom they should make application. The world is full of Trusses for the retention and cure of this lamentable evil, oftentimes an incontestable proof of their total and inadequate fitness to relieve the sufferer. This need not be; Dr. Keyser, at his new medicine store, No. 167 Liberty street, is abundantly supplied with every appliance, needful to the retention and relief of this terrible affliction, so that every one can be properly fitted at a moderate cost, with the full assurance that the appliance is the best that the mechanical department of surgery can afford. The Doctor has pursued the investigation of hernia with more than ordinary care for over thirty years, so that the afflicted can place implicit reliance on his skill and integrity with the full assurance that they will not only get the best truss, suitable to the case, but likewise a thorough and efficient knowledge of its proper application.

There are many persons who not only sacrifice their health, but even their lives, for want of a proper truss, or a truss properly applied. Strangulated and irreducable rupture, is far more common ailment now than in former years; and may we not justly arrive at the conclusion, that its frequency is often occasioned by the neglect and carelessness of the sufferers themselves. No one would be regarded as sane or excusable who would go for a whole winter without the proper clothing to shield them from the inclemency of the weather, but, at the same time, it is thought a light affair to suffer for years with a protrusion that not only subjects the person to inconvenience, but even places life itself in jeopardy. Those of our readers who may be unfortunate to need appliances of this kind cannot act more wisely than to cut this advertisement out and preserve it, so as to enable them to retain the place where such important preservers of life and health are to be procured.

THE PUREST AND SAFEST.

The efficacy of HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS as a specific for recruiting the enfeebled body and cheering the desponding mind has passed into a proverb. In the United States where this marvelous tonic has borne down all opposition and eclipsed all rivalry, the demand for it has annually increased in a heavier and heavier ratio for years, until, at last, the regular sales of this preparation exceed those of all other stomachics combined. Eminent members of the medical profession and hospital surgeons without number, have candidly admitted that the pharmacopiae of the faculty contains no prescription that produces such beneficial effects in dyspepsia, general debility and nervous diseases, as HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. To use the language of a venerable physician of New York, "The Bitters are the purest stimulant and the safest tonic we have." But the uses of the great vegetable antidote are much more comprehensive than such praise would imply. As a PREPARATORY ANTIDOTE to epidemic disease, a genial stimulant, a promoter of constitutional vigor, an appetizer, a stomachic, and a remedy for nervous debility, no medicinal preparation has ever attained the reputation of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. It is the HOUSEHOLD TONIC of the AMERICAN PEOPLE, and in all human probability will be so for centuries to come. The magnates of Science recognize its merits; and that it is emphatically the medicine of the masses, is proved by its vast and ever increasing sale

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 16, 1869.

Gold which was sold down last evening to 132⅝ opened stronger to-day at 132⅝, advanced to 133, declined to 132¾ and closed at 133¼, with some excitement. The decline yesterday was due to the official announcement of the payment of Coupons due July next, with a rebate of six per cent, gold interest, and since the bulk of the bonds on which the interest is due in July is held here, it was thought that under the present tight money market holders of bonds would be induced to avail themselves of Secretary Boutwell's offer and thus make gold plenty in the market, and cheap, without disturbing the currency. The rise is based more on rumors of a hostile attitude toward Spain, concerning the seizure of American vessels near the Cuban coast. This may have only been used as a means to advance gold by speculators, who are anxious to dispose of their gold on the best terms they can make. Should there be any truth about the matter, it is more likely that the Spanish Government will give a satisfactory explanation and the market will drop as quick as it rose.

In Government bonds there is a steady advance in the new bonds, and 1867's advanced to 115, 10-40's to 106, and still the tendency is upward, although bonds have not advanced in Europe. The new bonds have now reached the same price as old 1864's, interest due May next, and a sharp reaction may be looked for at any moment. The present prices are sustained from the large short interest still outstanding, and money being easier, it is too expensive to borrow bonds, and therefore it is preferable to buy back even at a loss.

The stock market is firm but unchanged; some of the western roads have slightly advanced, but the market is considered entirely too high to calculate on any profit at present prices, even for a long investment.

Money is easier and business dull.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 16, 1869.

The oil market was exceedingly quiet to-day, while, compared with yesterday, prices have undergone no quotable change. The trade was considerably excited over the report of an oil inspection bill having passed the Legislature, and while but little was known in regard to provisions or details, it was generally denounced, and those who were instrumental in having it passed, were called almost everything but honest men. Our dispatches of to-night, will doubtless throw some light upon the matter.

CRUDE—Compared with yesterday, is unchanged. Sales 1,400 and 750 bbls on spot at 15, and we are cognizant of an offer to buy 5,000 bbls sellers option until July, (40 to 46) at 15¼. May and Jude may be quoted at 15½@16.

REFINED—The Refined market, although quiet, is steady, with some inquiry both for present and future delivery, and but very few sellers. Compared with yesterday, prices are unchanged. Sale of 500 last half April, at 32—last evening—500 each May to December, at 35. Quotations—April to June, 33; May and June, 34; April to September, 35; May to September, 35½; and June to December, 36@36½. Buyer all the year nominal at 38½.

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 16, 1869.

The metal market has again been rather quiet during the past week, and devoid of anything new or really important. Eastern irons are reported a trifle easier, under the influence of a slight decline in the East, though it makes but little difference, as all irons made in the East are relatively higher than here. Even if there was no difference in this respect, the fact that freights are less from the furnaces to Philadelphia than to Pittsburgh, tends very much to throw the great proportion of this iron in that direction, and prevents it from coming to this market. This should not be, but it appears that there is no way of getting over it. The arrivals of Western irons continue moderate, and with a demand apparently up to the production, the market for this class of irons is active and firm and prices are fully sustained. It is a little remarkable that this should be the case, in the face of a largely increased number of furnaces, but it is nevertheless a fact. The production in the Mahoning and Shenango regions is larger now than ever before, but it appears to be all wanted, and the furnaces generally are reported as having as many orders as they can fill.

There is a continued good demand for desirable grades of foundry irons, and the stock of this kind is reported unusually light in this market.

In regard to bar iron and nails, there is but little that is new to be said in a general way. The demand is reported as increasing slowly but steadily and the indications for the future, look better than they did on the first of the month. Orders continue to flow in pretty freely, and stocks are very much reduced. It is true, prices are very low, and the margin for the manufacturer light.

JACK-SHOOTING.

A Most Remarkable Deer Story.

BY REV. WM. N. MURRAY.

I slowly rose in the boat, turned up the jack, and peered anxiously into the fog. The strong reflector bored a lane through the fleecy mass for some fifty feet, perhaps; even at that distance objects mingled grotesquely with the fog. At the extreme end of the opening I detected a bright, diamond-like spark. Nothing more could be seen. "It may be the eye of a deer, and it may only a drop of water, or a wet leaf," said I to myself. Still it looked gamy. I concluded to launch a bullet at it anyway. Whispering to Martin to steady the boat, I sunk my eye well down into the sights, and holding for the gleam amid the marsh-grass, fired. The smoke, mingling heavily with the fog, made all murky before me, while the explosion, striking against the mountains on either side, started a dozen reverberations, so that we could neither see or hear what was the result of the shot. After waiting in silence a few moments, hoping to hear the deer "kick," without any such happy result, I told Martin I would go ashore to load, and see what it was I had shot at. He paddled forward, and, seizing the tall grass, while he forced the boat in against the bank with his paddle, I clambered up. Being curious to ascertain what had deceived me, I strode off into the marsh some forty feet, and, turning up the jack, lo! and behold a dead deer lay at my feet. "Martin!" shouted I, "here the deer is, dead as a tick!"

"The d—l!" exclaimed the guide from the fog.

"What did you say?" again I shouted.

"I said I didn't believe it," returned Martin soberly.

"Paddle your canoe up here, then, you old skeptic, and see for your self," I rejoined, taking the deer by the ear and dragging him to the bank. "Here he is, and a monster too." Martin did as directed, "Well," exclaimed he, as he unbent his gaunt form from the curve into which two hours of paddling had cramped it, and straightened himself to his full heighth, until his eyes rested upon the buck,—"well, Mr. Murray, you are the first man I ever saw draw a fine bead in a night like this, standing in the bow of a Saranac boat, at the twinkle of a deer's eye, and kill. That jack of yours is a big thing, and no mistake." By the time he had finished the boat had drifted off into the river,—for the current was quite strong at that point—and I was alone. I was just fitting a cap to the tube of the discharged barrel when I felt a movement at my feet, and, casting my eyes downward, I saw that the deer was in the act of getting up! The ball, as we afterwards discovered, had glanced along the front of the skull, barely creasing the skin. It had touched the bone slightly, and stunned him so that he dropped: but beyond this, it had not hurt him in the least. Quick as thought I put my foot against his shoulder and pushed him over. "Martin," I cried, "this deer isn't dead; he's trying to get up. What shall I do?"

"Get hold of his hind leg; I'll be with you in a minute," was the answer.

I did as directed. I laid hold of his left hind leg, just above the fetlocks, and sprang to my feet.

Reader did you ever seize a pig by the hind leg? If so, multiply that pig by ten for every twitch he gives, count six; lash a big lantern to your head, fancy yourself standing alone on a swampy marsh in a dark, foggy night, with a rifle in your left hand, and being twitched about among the bogs and in and out of muskrat holes, until your whole system seems on the point of a separation which shall send you in a thousand infinitesimal parts in all directions, like fragments of an exploding buzz wheel, and you have my appearance and feelings as I was jerked about that night amid the mire and marsh-grass, as I clung to the leg of that deer. Now, when I fasten to anything I always expect to hold on. This was my determination when I put my fingers around the buck's leg. I have a tremendous grip. My father had before me. With his hands at a two-inch auger hole in the head of a barrel I have seen him clutch now with his right, now with his left hand, twenty-two house-rats as they came darting out to escape the stick with which I was stirring them up, and dash them dead upon the floor, without getting a single bite; and everybody knows that a rat, in full bolt, comes out of a barrel like a flash of lightning. I fully expected to maintain the family prestige for grip. I did. I stuck to that deer with all my power of arm and will. I felt it to be a sort of personal contest between him and myself. Nevertheless, I was perfectly willing at any time to let go. I had undertaken the job at the request of another, and was ready to surrender it instantly upon demand. I shouted to Martin to get out of that boat mighty quick if he wanted to take his deer home, for I shouldn't hold on to him much longer. It took me about two minutes to deliver that sentence. It was literally jerked out of me, word by word. Never did I labor under greater embarrassment in expressing myself. In the meanwhile Martin was meeting with difficulty. The bank of the river was steep, and the light cedar shell, with only himself in it, was all out of balance and hard to manage. It may be that his very strong desire to get on to that meadow where I was holding his deer for him operated to confuse and embarrass his movements. He would propel the boat at full speed toward the bank, then jump for the bow; but his motion forward would release the boat from the mud, and when he reached the bow the boat would be half-way across the river again. Now Martin is a man of great patience. He is not by any means a prone person. He had always shown great respect for the cloth. But everybody will see that his position was a very trying one. Three several times, as he afterward informed me, did he drive the boat into the bank, and three several times when he got to the bow, that boat was in the middle of the river. At last Martin's patience gave way, and out of the fog came to my ears ejaculations of disgust, and such strong expletives as are found only in choice old English, and howls of rage and disappointment that none but a fiend could utter in like circumstances. But human endurance has a limit. I was at reaching a condition of mind when family pride and transmitted powers of resolution fail. What did I care for my father's exploit with the rats at the two-inch auger-hole? What did the family grip amount to after all? I was fast losing sight of the connection such vanities sustained to me. I was undergoing a rapid change in many respects—of body as well as mind! When I got hold of that deer's leg, I was mentally full of pluck and hope; my hunting coat, of Irish corduroy, was whole and tightly buttoned. Now, mentally, I was demoralized, every button was gone from the coat, and the right sleeve hung disconnected with the body of the garment. The jack had been jerked from my head, and lay a rod off in the marsh grass. I could hold on no longer. I would make one more effort, one more appeal. I did. "Martin," said I, "aren't you ever going to get out of that boat?"

The heavy thug of the boat against the bank, an explosive and sputtering noise which sounded very much like the word "damn" spoken from between shut teeth, a splash, a scramble, and then I caught sight of the gaunt form of Martin, paddle in hand and hunting knife between his teeth, loping along toward me, through the tall, rank grass. But, alas! it was too late. The auspicious moment had passed. My fingers one by one loosened their hold, and the deer, gathering all his strength, with a terrific elevation of his hind feet sent me reeling backward, just as Martin, doubled up into a heap, was about to alight upon his back. He missed the back, but, as good luck would have it, even while the buck was in the air,—the deer going up as Martin came down,—the fingers of the guide closed with a full and desperate grip upon his tail. Quick as a flash I recovered myself from the bogs, replaced the jack, which fortunately had not been extinguished, upon my head, and stood an interested spectator of the proceedings. Now everybody knows how a wild deer can jump when frightened; and the buck, with Martin fastened to his tail, was thoroughly roused. The first leap straightened Martin out like a lath, but it did not shake him from his hold. If the reader has ever seen a small boy hanging to the tail-board of a wagon, when the horse was at full speed, he can form a faint idea of Martin's appearance as the deer tore like a whirlwind through the tall grass. Blinded and bewildered by the light, frenzied with fear, the buck, as deer often will, instead of leading off, kept racing up and down just within the border of light made by the jack, and occasionally making a bolt directly for it. My position was unique. I was the sole spectator of a series of gymnastic evolutions truly original. Small as the audience was, the performers were thoroughly in earnest. Had there been ten thousand spectators, the actors could not have laid themselves out with greater energy. No applause could have got another jump out of the buck or another inch of horizontal position out of Martin. Whenever, at long interuals, his feet did touch the ground, it was only to leave it for another and higher aerial plunge. Now and then the buck would take a long stretch into the fog and darkness, only to reappear with the same inevitable attachment of arms and legs streaming behind.

When the contest would have ended, what would have been the result had it continued, whether the buck or the guide would have come off the winner, it is not easy to say. Nor is it necessary to speculate, for the close was speedily reached, and in an unlooked-for manner. The deer had led off some dozen jumps out of the circle of light, and I was beginning to think that he had shaken himself loose from his enemy, when all at once he emerged from the fog with Martin still streaming behind him, and made straight for the river. Never did I see a buck vault higher or project himself farther in successive leaps. The Saranacer was too much put to it to articulate a word; only a series of grunts, as he was twitched along, revealed the state of his pent-up feelings. Past me the deer flashed like a feathered shaft, heading directly for the bank. "Hang on, Martin!" I screamed, sobered by the thought that he would save him yet if he could only retain his grip—"hang to him like death!" He did. Never did my admiration go out more strongly toward a man than it did toward Martin, as red in the face and unable to relieve himself by a single expression, he went tearing along at a fearful rate in full bolt for the river. No one men in fifty could have kept his single-handed grip, jerked, at the close of such a struggle as the Saranacer had passed through, and twitched mercilessly as he now was being dragged through the tall bog-grass and over the uneven ground. But the guide's blood was up, and nothing could loosen his clutch. The buck reached the bank, and, gathering himself up for a desperate leap, he flung his body into the air. I saw a pair of widely spread legs swing wildly upward, and the red face of Martin, head downward, and reversed, so as to be turned directly toward me by the summersault he was turning, disappeared like a waning rocket in the fog overhanging the river. Once in the water, the buck was no match for his foe. I hurried to the edge of the bank. Beneath me, and half across the river, a desperate struggle was going on. Martin had found his voice, and was using it as if to make up for lost time. In a moment a gurgling sound reached my ears, and I knew that the deer's head was under the water; and shortly, in answer to my hail, the guide appeared, dragging the buck behind him. The deer was drowned and quite dead.—From "Adventures in the Wilderness, or Camp Life in the Adirondacks."

THE Greenville (Pa.) Argus says the indications are that the work on the Shenango and Allegheny Railroad will commence as soon as the weather will permit. At a meeting of the Directors held in Greenville last week, contracts were made with responsible parties for the building of the bridges and for laying the iron the whole lenth of the road. The contract for the delivery of the iron for the road was made some weeks ago, and a portion of it is now ready for delivery.

A JAPANESE scholar protests against the Christian religion on two grounds. He considers the doctrine of the Fatherhood of God incompatible with the proper devotion to the Mikado and the rules of the Japanese Empire; and the brotherhood of man he holds incompatible with proper reverence for rank. His argument has been printed and scattered widely through the Empire.

THE question of admitting negroes to give evidence before the Courts of Kentucky, is being revived. Its principal opponents are Jesse D. Bright, the Indiana carpet-bagger, and Dick Stanton. Gov. Stevenson, who is a cipher as to influence, is neither for nor against the proposition. But the press of the State is for the measure, and it is likely to be finally carried.

Fashionable Announcement.—Ladies will bear in mind that this morning Bates & Bell, dry goods dealers, No. 21 Fifth avenue, will open for exhibition and sale a fine collection of black silk dresses, walking suits, white linen sea shore suits, elegant mantles, coats and sacques, directly imported from France. The styles are very neat and beautiful, and all are invited to call in and examine them, as nothing prettier has ever been seen in this market.

French Suits for Ladies.—Messrs. Bates & Bell, No. 21 Fifth avenue, have just received a direct importation of ladies' black silk suits, street dresses, white linen suits, sacques and walking coats, which will be opened this morning for sale. These are direct from Paris, the capital of the fashionable world, and are something so stylish and beautiful that they must fill the idea of the most fastidious of our lady friends. Call in and see the exposition, whether you desire to purchase or not, and take advantage of the lesson of good taste fresh from the French dressmakers.

Where to be Found.

I take this method of informing my many friends who are in want of suitable clothing for Spring and Summer wear, to come and see me at the elegant and fashionable Tailoring establishment of Mr. Henry Sutmeyer, No. 127 Federal street, Allegheny City, where I warrant to suit my numerous friends in every particular. M. C. BURKE,
Late Cutter at No. 118 Market street.

Serious Charge.

Mr. S. T. Paisley, Superintendent of the Fire Alarm and Police Telegraph, made information before the Mayor yesterday, charging William Cassidy with tampering with and breaking a fire alarm box. It is alleged that the accused maliciously broke and destroyed box 71, situated at the corner of Penn and Butler streets, in the Fifteenth ward. The charge, owing to the severity of the penalty, which in case of conviction is a fine of five hundred dollars and imprisonment for two years, both or either at the discretion of the Court, is a serious one. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Cassidy.

A Decided Advantage.

The very best lard in this market is that manufactured, pure, clear and clean, by the celebrated old packing house of Proctor & Gamble, Cincinnati, which is put up in patent caddies, convenient to consumers, in three, five and ten pound packages. By this system the lard is kept cleaner, without any waste whatever, and dealers experience no loss in weighing out as they do in taking from kegs and tierces. Every caddy is full weight, warranted, and of the very best quality. The first-class and highly responsible Pittsburgh house of Isaiah Dickey & Co. are the sole agents for this lard, in this city, to whom dealers should address their orders.

Put Him Off.

James J. Saxton made information before Alderman McMasters yesterday against A. Eberhart for assault and battery. Eberhart is one of the bosses at the Manchester passenger car stables, and was riding in one of the cars yesterday, in which Saxton was also seated. Saxton alleges he paid his fare once while crossing the Suspension bridge, and was again asked for it when the car had reached Beaver avenue, Sixth ward, Allegheny. He states he insisted upon having paid it, and a difficulty accordingly ensued between him and the conductor, when Eberhart interfered and put him off the car, handling him roughly in the operation. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Eberhart.

Interesting Presentation.

Mr. H. M. Butler, the popular Depot Master at the Union Depot, was last evening presented with a valuable gold watch by his railroad and other friends. The presentation took place at the Superintendent's office, at the Union Depot. There were a large number of the friends of Mr. Butler present, and an organization was had by electing Mr. L. French President, and Messrs. B. Ramsey and J. Stevens Vice Presidents. Walter Kirkpatrick, Esq., made the presentation speech, and very happily referred to the kindly relations which had ever existed between the donors and the recipient. Mr. Butler responded in appropriate terms, referring in a feeling manner to the kindness of his friends, so substantially made manifest on the occasion. The watch is of the most valuable character and was gotten up by W. G. Dunseath, Fifth avenue.

Fire Department Matters.

The Council Committee on Fire Engines and Hose, at a meeting last evening, considered the matter of purchasing horses for the new hook and ladder truck, located on Seventh avenue, and approved the action of a sub-committee in purchasing the Neptune horses and harness for $400. A warrant was ordered for the amount.

Warrants were also ordered in favor of Holtzman & Weiderholt for $63.80; Dauler, Close & Co., $37.84; Robert Herron, $8.42; S. Hare & Son, $3.50.

The following were also adopted.

Resolved, That the Chief Engineer be directed to take an invoice of all the property in the old Engine House, Seventh avenue.

Resolved, That the Committee on purchasing a team for the Niagara, be authorized to purchase the Neptune Reel, provided they can get it for the sum of $150, and that said Reel be placed in the Engine House on Seventh avenue.

THE FIRE.

The Conflagration Continues—Another Tank Explodes—Another Man Reported Burned—No Additional Damage to Surrounding Property—The Loss Estimated at $250,000—Insurance $83,750.

The great oil conflagration at Forsyth Brothers Oil Works, previous accounts of which we have published, was still raging last night, and, as we stated in our report of the disaster yesterday, will probably continue until every particle of oil in the tanks already reported on fire has been consumed. Since our last account of the fire there have been but few additional incidents transpiring worthy of note. The oil in the tanks mentioned continued to burn without any abatement or perceptible change until about six o'clock yesterday morning, when the large tank, which had caught fire the evening previous, bursted, and the burning oil was spread in a sheet of flame all over that portion which we described yesterday, doing no serious damage, however, as everything of a perishable nature had been consumed Thursday. During the remainder of the day the fire continued without the occurrence of anything worthy of note.

A report was current that a man had been burned to death in the barrel house on Thursday, but it was not credited. It was stated that several men, who were intoxicated, had gone into the barrel house and laid down, and when it became evident that it could not be saved from the fury of the flames, their friends rushed in and rescued all but one of the drunken party, and he refused to come out. It was only a rumor, however, as we were unable to find any person who had seen the man in the barrel house. Nothing definite has been ascertained relative to the remains of the man found on Thursday.

It is not apprehended that the fire will spread any further, or that there will be any further destruction of property.

The entire loss in consequence of the disaster, is estimated at $250,000, upon which there is but $83,750 insurance.

Forsythe Brothers' loss will not fall short of $225,000, upon which they have an insurance of $89,500, as follows:

Very Latest.

The alarm of fire sounded from box 75, at one o'clock A. M., was occasioned by the renewed violent demonstration of the fiery element. The oil in the six thousand barrel tank, which was burning during the day, at midnight reached the deposit of water on the bottom, when the steam, generated by the intense heat, caused the flames to burst out in renewed fury, reaching three hundred feet toward the heavens. The double two-story frame dwelling, occupied by German workmen employed at the refinery, and owned by Mr. H. Schneider, took fire and had to be torn down by Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, to save the Franklin Hotel, adjacent. The sight presented to our reporter at that hour this morning was truly grand and magnificent. For a mile around the scene of the fire everything was plainly discernible, and the heavens were red as blood in the bright glare. The fire, it is thought, has exhausted itself and will do no more damage. Earthworks in the form of rifle-pits have been thrown up on either side of the five acres of ground already devastated, and will serve to check the progress of the flames. The Standard Oil Refinery was in imminent danger this morning, but owing to precautions adopted, no alarm need be manifested for its safety. With the additional amount lost last night, we should not be surprised should the aggregate closely approximate three hundred thousand dollars, if not a much larger sum.

The Duquesne, Niagara, Vigilant and other engines were on the ground, working industriously, when our reporter left at two o'clock this morning. A slight wind was blowing westward, which is a favorable sign, as all the property in that direction has been destroyed.

Allegheny Fair.

A Fair is now in progress in Berherst's Hall, Sandusky street, near the West Penn Railroad crossing, Allegheny, under the charge of the ladies of St. Peters church. Many elegant and valuable articles are offered for chances. There are life-like portraits in oil of Right Rev. Bishop Mullen, of Erie, and the late Father Stiebiel, of Allegheny. Among the prizes to be voted are a fine blooded horse to the gentleman receiving the highest number of votes; a gold headed cane to the most popular Councilman; an easy chair to the most popular Alderman of the two cities; an elegant revolver to the most efficient police officer of Allegheny; a gold chain to the most popular railroad engineer; a silver pitcher, goblet and salver to be contested for by the brewers: a set of harness to the most popular livery stable keeper.

The hall is handsomely decorated and a brass band is in regular attendance, while everything else is done to render the place attractive. If our readers wish to spend a pleasant evening they will visit the Fair, and we assure them they will have enjoyment and repeat the visit.

ANOTHER CONFLAGRATION.

Fire at the House of Refuge—Destruction of Workshops—Estimated Loss $16,000.

Last evening, a few minutes before six o'clock. Mr. Hammel, a gardner at the House of Refuge, noticed fire issuing from the roof of one of the side buildings in which was located the cooper-shop, and whip manufactory. He at once gave the alarm which summoned the officers of the institution, and caused an examination of the premises.

The wing in which the fire was discovered was a two story brick edifice, located on the eastern side of and connected with the main building by a platform, constructed from the second floors across an intervening space of about twenty feet. The lower floor was occupied as a cooper shop, and the upper as a whip manufactory. Neither of these were managed by the officers of the Refuge, although the male inmates of the House were employed in them. The cooper shop was controlled by Messrs. R. T. Kennedy & Brother, proprietors of the Pearl Steam Mill, Allegheny. The whip factory was under the supervision of Messrs. Weaver, Bardall & Co. Both of these firms paid the Refuge for the time employed by the boys.

When the officers of the Refuge entered the whip factory, they discovered the flames to be raging fiercely between the ceiling and rafters, but supposing it possible to subdue the flames with the force at their disposal, they did not immediately summon the Fire Department. They commenced with the hose, kept on hand for an emergency, and the buckets; but after working about fifteen minutes, and finding the flames increasing, telegraphed for assistance to Allegheny and were answered by the entire Fire Department, in about twenty minutes. The engines were compelled to draw water from the river, there being no other water facilities., The arrival of the firemen was very opportune, as the fire began to spread towards the main building, It was however prevented extending in that direction by the demolition of the connecting platform and the prompt exertions of the firemen in directing two streams of water upon that side of the burning building. Before the flames filled the interior of the shops a portion of the stock was removed from the coopering establishment, but none could be secured from the whip factory. The fire continued to burn for over two hours, and resulted in the total destruction of the wing in which it originated and almost the entire contents.

The loss of Messrs. Kennedy & Bro. is estimated at $1,500, upon which, we are informed, there was no insurance. Messrs. Weaver & Co. will lose probably $2,500, consisting principally of finished work. They were not insured. The building when constructed, about five years since, cost $12,000, and as it was totally destroyed, nothing but a portion of the walls remaining, the Refuge will lose this amount. This is, however, about, if not altogether, covered by insurance. We could not learn the exact figures or the Company. Great credit is due the firemen for the manner in which they discharged their duties. Had it not been for their promptness and energetic labors doubtless the entire Refuge would have been destroyed. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defect in the smoke stack built up from the cooper shop, through the whip factory and roof. A few days since this stack was covered with a spark arrestor, to provide against fire from this cause, but the supposition is that the stack had became heated near the rafters and set them on fire, which had been smouldering for several days. There had been no fire in either shop for nearly two hours previous to the conflagration, the boys having quit work at four o'clock.

At the time of the alarm, the male inmates of the Refuge, one hundred and sixty-seven in all, were out on their play ground. Notwithstanding the excitement, however, they remained quiet, evincing no signs of insubordination and were taken into their appropriate rooms in the usual manner, as though no excitement at all existed. The gates were necessarily thrown open, but though every opportunity for an escape was thus afforded, all the inmates were true to the confidence reposed in them. Some of the most trustworthy were engaged in extinguishing the fire, and labored as heartily as though their own houses were were being destroyed, Circumstances like these, speak well for the discipline of the institution.

We are indebted to the obliging Superintendent, Rev. Avery and the gentlemanly Clerk and Librarian of the Refuge, Mr. J. M. Boggs, for their kindness in furnishing every information in relation to the affair.

Summary Ejectment.

Our judicial friend, Alderman McMasters, descended from his magisterial dignity and engaged in a new role. It was in this wise. Information was lodged before him by a widow residing in the Eighth ward, Allegheny, against a well known surgeon of this city for assault and battery. The lady, who is quite old, alleged she had called on the man of the knife and saw some time ago to dress one of her arms, which had unfortunately been broken. The attendant called in regard to the affair about sixteen times, and was paid for his services fifty dollars, the amount of the bill presented. About two weeks after the payment of the bill, it is said a new one for three dollars was sent in and payment peremptorily demanded but refused. The surgeon then drew up a note and, it is alleged, compelled the lady to sign it by going to her house, (in which she resides alone,) dragging her forward to a table and guiding her hand to make a cross. She being German, and unable to speak or write English, was unable to tell the purport of the note until it was afterwards revealed to her. The accused was arrested in an hour or two after the information had been made and brought to the office. He at once became indignant at the charge, but cooled off somewhat, and at the instance of the magistrate went in pursuit of bail, that the case might be sent to Court. Returning with the required security, he again became boisterous, and in the course of his remarks charged the Alderman with making the case without any information having been lodged before him at all. Becoming valorous, according to the statements of witnesses, he drew forth a huge knife and threatened to exercise his craft on the official, a proceeding which might have been accomplished had he not found himself suddenly kicked into the street by his intended victim. He sheathed the knife and retired after this summary ejectment, with his valorous feelings considerably lowered. Doubtless he will hereafter be more careful in his insinuations, at least in that quarter. Subsequently a friend appeared and entered the required bail for his appearance for trial, on the charge made against him.

New Stock of Jewelry, Watches, Clocks and Optical Goods at W. G. Dunseath's, No. 56 Fifth Avenue.

Mr. William G. Dunseath, a name long and prominently associated with the jewelry, watch and clock business of this city, and one which has been synonymous with choice goods in the line, at most reasonable prices, has just opened a magnificent new stock of goods, fresh from the leading houses of the east. The present invoice comprises all that is new and elegant in jewelry, selected by Mr. Dunseath himself, which will be sufficient guarantee to our readers of the judicious assortment, as few gentlemen understand better how to please the public in matters of this kind. The stock of gold and silver watches, for ladies and gentlemen, is remarkably fine, and besides the collection of time pieces manufactured in Europe, embraces a large number of American made watches, especially those of the great United States Watch Company, for which Mr. Dunseath is agent. Clocks in plain and elaborate furniture, exquisite statuary, mantle ornaments, music boxes, optical goods of all descriptions, and an endless number of other articles enter into the stock and present rare attractions to the visitor. Several fine marine chronometers are on exhibition at the store room, and by them hundreds of watches are daily regulated, as the time of this house has long been regarded as standard authority by thousands of citizens. We earnestly commend Mr. Dunseath to the patronage of our readers, and oespeak for him that large share of trade which his energy, enterprise and fair dealing merit.

"Westward the Star, &c."

The rapid strides our city is making in the way of public improvements, great as they may appear, do not keep pace with the age of progress in which we live. This fact is fully demonstrated by the increase in our business and the establishment of new manufacturing houses, of almost every description, within a few years past. Until within two or three years the manufacture of queensware in this section was unthought of, and dealers were compelled to transport their stock from the East, paying a large freight upon the same. We now have, however, an establishment where a quality of ware, equal to the celebrated Liverpool ware, is manufactured and sold at about one half the cost. We refer to the extensive establishment of S. M. Kier & Co., 363 Liberty street.

Orders Filled.

Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. John Megraw, dealer in segars, snuff and tobacco, at No. 45 Hand street, has just received and filled a large order for cigars from Washington city, intended probably for the President, he has still on hand a large and complete assortment of segars, pipes, smoking and chewing tobacco of every description. His stock comprises everything kept in a first class establishment of that character, and retail dealers will find his brands of tobacco and segars equal, if not superior, to any other in the country, and lovers of the weed in the city know full well that his retail case is always supplied with all the best brands of segars and that his tobacco is unexceptionable.

To the Ladies.

For the information of our many lady readers, we desire to call attention to the establishment of W. W. Moorhead, No. 81 Market street, dealer in trimmings, lace goods, hosiery and gloves, of which he has one of the most extensive and best selected stocks to be found in the city. It is only necessary to make a visit to the establishment to be convinced of this fact, as hundreds can fully testify. Mr. Moorhead possesses unusual facilities for purchasing goods in the East, and is thereby enabled to not only keep his stock fully replenished and up to the demands of his immense custom, but he is also enabled thereby to sell at more reasonable rates than dealers who do not possess these facilities.

Books for the Million.

Col. J. D. Egan, proprietor of the extensive and well known book and periodical store, Sixth avenue, near Smithfield street, has on hand a large and elegant assortment of new books, as well as a large supply of rare and valuable second-hand books which are being sold at half price. He also invites the attention of Superintendents of Sunday Schools, and others interested, to his immense stock of Sunday School Library books, which are being sold at one-half the usual prices. All the latest magazines and periodicals will be found on his counter. Second-hand books bought and sold.

Up With The Times.

Mr. Holtzheimer proprietor of the Continental Saloon, is always up with the times. His tables are always supplied with the very best the season affords, and then everything is served in such a delicious manner as to prove highly satisfactory to the greatest epicure. His tables are always provided with the freshest and best of vegetables in the market, and meats and fish are always found there in the season. The Continental on Fifth Avenue is the most popular eating saloon in the city.

American Button Hole, Over Seaming and Sewing Machine Company.

They have received another large invoice of Machines at their sales room. The sales of these admirable machines are very great, as all who have tried them are well pleased. Call and see them operate and examine the numerous testimonials in their favor, as all affirm they have no equal, being absolutely the best family machine now made, and intrinsically the cheapest. It is two machines combined in one by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement. The simplicity, ease and certainty with which they operate, as well as the uniform excellence of its work throughout the entire range of sewing, in stitching, hemming, felling, tucking, cording, braiding, quilting, gathering and sewing on overseaming, embroidering on the edge, and its beautiful button and eyelet-hole work, places it unquestionably far in advance of any other similar invention. We desire all to see and try it, and are willing to rest the case on its own merits alone.

JAMES ESPY is the agent, at corner of Fifth Avenue and Market street.

Ether.

Dr. Mason Warren says in his "Surgical Observations with Cases" that "in the course of twenty years not a single death can be fairly attributed to the use of Sulphuric Ether. In the Massachusetts General Hospital alone it has been employed over twenty thousand times, without a single unfavorable occurrence." Dr. J. Scott bears the same testimony. He has administered ether for the painless extraction of teeth in OVER TWENTY THOUSAND CASES, without injury resulting in a single case. With a practice of nearly thirty years, he stands at the head of his profession, and his guarantee is worth something, and he says to those who are suffering with decayed or unsightly teeth, that he will guarantee to extract them without pain. He also inserts artificial teeth in every stylé, and defies competition both in prices and excellence of the work. Remember his number—278 PENN STREET.
